Instead of waiting for good news, accomplishments, or validation from others, Shimoff advocates for developing an internal happiness reservoir—an ongoing state of contentment and peace.

The Science of Happiness

What Does Psychology Say?

Research in positive psychology underscores that happiness is partly influenced by genetics, circumstances, and intentional activities. While genetics and circumstances account for some variation, studies show that deliberate practices—such as gratitude, mindfulness, and positive reframing—can significantly boost one's baseline happiness.

Neuroplasticity and Happiness

Shimoff emphasizes that happiness isn't fixed; it can be cultivated through neuroplasticity—the brain's ability to change and adapt. Engaging in specific mental practices can rewire neural pathways, making positive emotions more accessible and sustainable.
