The Origins of Romantic Gardens in the New World

Historical Context and Influences

The development of romantic gardens in the New World was heavily influenced by European landscape traditions, particularly those of England, France, and Italy. However, the New World's vast landscapes and diverse ecosystems provided fertile ground for a more eclectic and daring approach. The blending of indigenous flora with imported species, along with the desire to reflect the continent's wilderness and frontier spirit, resulted in gardens that were distinctly American yet rooted in European traditions.

From Classic to Contemporary: Tracing the Roots

The concept of romantic gardens finds its roots in the 18th and 19th centuries, particularly within the European tradition.
